

224. quibus – connecting relative. matri is modified by suae in next line. For quondam check line 186.

225. flectit has cursus, a noun whose meaning you should check if you are not sure, in next line as D.O.

227. Ei mihi - a cry of sorrow: Alas for me! fixa modifies tela in next line.

228. Note arrangement of words. For case and reason of manu, check meaning of remissis and what it goes with.

229. Note that latus is neuter and gives the English word lateral.

230. Proximus modifies Sipylus in the next line. inane – adjective as noun: substantive. pharetrae goes with sonitu. What case and reason?

231. praescius – an adjective whose meaning is clear from its roots. It modifies rector in the next line. What case and reason for imbris if it is governed by praescius?

232. nube visa - looks like what to you? fugit - present tense because the u has to be short.

233. qua – meter tells us it is long; after ne it equals aliqua, and is here an adverb: in any way, at all. effluo - cf. line 229. levis - both syllables are short. If first syllable is long e, then it means smooth.

234. dantem modifies an understood Sipylum and has frena as its D.O.. Note that non negates evitabile, which modifies telum, the subject of the verb

235. Note the arrangement of the words. Meter helps with cases, although this is a somewhat difficult line, unless you work from the end back. summa - understand its meaning within the framework of medius, inus, extremus, and ultimus. Ask.

236. ferrum is metonymy, not for sword, but for arrow point.

237. ut - with the indicative has the meaning of when, as. admissa – here has the sense of let go, allowed to gallop.

240. imposuere – that archaic form we've seen before. What case and reason does that make labori? ut with the indicative again. solito is the participle of soleo. Think! You are NOT alone and usually get this.

241. Note the arrangement of words. Note also the verb tense. What is the 1st principal part?

242. contulerant - the tense is easy. What is the stem? Now think about the root meanings.

243. cum - conjunction: when. concita modifies sagitta in the next line.

244. utrumque is from uterque; check it out in the dictionary.

245. ingemuere – another archaic perfect, as is posuere in next line. With the repetition of simul four times in three lines, Ovid emphasizes that the actions are happening very much simultaneously.

246. iacentes – has the sense of lying dead and here modifies the understood subject (they).

247. Both verbs have syncopation, a -ve- is dropped, before the -runt at the end.

The unavoidable arrow - Ludovico Dolce 1558

E quibus Ismenus, qui matri sarcina quondam prima sua fuerat, dum certum flectit in orbem
quadripedis cursus spumantiaque ora coeret, “Ei mihi!” conclamat medioque in pectore fixa
tela gerit frenisque manu moriente remissis in latus a dextro paulatim defluit armo.

225

Proximus auditu sonitu per inane pharetrae
frena dabat Sipylus, veluti cum praescius imbris nube fugit visa pendentiaque undique rector
carbasa deducit, ne qua levis effluat aura:
frena tamen dantem non evitabile telum
consequitur, summaque tremens cervice sagitta haesit, et exstabat nudum de gutture ferrum;
ille, ut erat, pronus per crura admissa iubasque
volvitur et calido tellurem sanguine foedat.
Phaedimus infelix et aviti nominis heres
Tantalus, ut solito finem inposuere labori,
transierant ad opus nitidae iuvenale palaestrae;
et iam contulerant arto luctantia nexu
pectoris pectoribus, cum tento concita nervo, sicut erant iuncti, traiecit utrumque sagitta.
Ingemuere simul, simul incurvata dolore
membra solo posuere, simul suprema iacentes lumina versarunt, animam simul exhalarunt.
